

L. L. NUNN
A MEMOIR

BY STEPHEN A. BAILEY

PRINTED FOR
TELLURIDE ASSOCIATION
ITHACA · NEW YORK

1933

CONTENTS

		PAGE
I.	GLIMPSSES OF THE MAN His life work as characterized by himself. His ancestry. Reminiscences and impressions.	II
II.	YOUTH AND EARLY MANHOOD Various lasting influences: rural life; individual personalities, historic and contemporaneous; studies; travel.	32
III.	FRONTIER LIFE IN COLORADO Adventurous existence in Leadville, Durango, and Telluride, as related by Malachi Kinney; law practice and beginnings of fortune.	46
IV.	BUILDER AND PIONEER Organization and management of mining companies; development of long-distance transmission of electric power; concomitant growth of educational work in connection with the training of student-employees at power plants.	60
V.	YEARS OF CONTROVERSY Further characteristic Telluride incidents. Disappointment in mining venture. Disagreement with president of Telluride Power Company. Sale of company.	75
VI.	HIS PLAN REALIZED Serious illness. Endowment of Telluride Association and adoption of constitution. Deep Springs. Sale of Casper lighting plant. His last hours.	94
VII.	THE SPIRIT OF THE MAN Essay, "The Moral Sense," the genesis of Deep Springs. Letter in defense of his mining company. Correspondence and other matter especially concerning Deep Springs. Constitution of Telluride Association.	117
	INDEX	179

L. C. Nathan